COVER PICTURE: Good Hall, the academic classroom building, is named in honor of J. Omar Good, who died in 1969 leaving Juniata College a bequest of one million dollars. Mr. Good received his bachelor of English degree from the Brethren's Normal School in 1896 and throughout the remainder of his long Christian life cultivated a warm interest in his alma mater culminating in the largest gift ever received by the college.

JUNIATA 1971— FIVE YEARS TO CENTENNIAL

Report of the President

How far have we come—and how far have we yet to go? Preparation of Juniata for her second century of service is the prime concern of the present administration which began its work in 1968. Five years of steady effort remain for us to gain added strength and renewed commitment so that in 1976 the College's Centennial may be celebrated with a confident look to the future. We want the Juniata of the future to be even more auspicious in her usefulness than the Juniata of the past. Our legacy is rich; let us give thanks by adding to that richness. Juniata has been relevant for her times; change must be her way of life if she is to serve the future according to the future's needs.

It is appropriate now to make an inventory of our efforts at renewal and enrichment. This will suggest the direction of change. It will remind us of steps yet to be taken. Thus we shall better determine the focus of our efforts during the next five years, 1971-1976.

Those who know Juniata believe that she possesses certain unique characteristics and values that should be perpetuated. But perpetuation without scrutiny and renewal would not be worthy of a college seeking to deserve support for her second century. Consider the following as suggestive in brief form of some of the chief elements of Juniata's heritage:

- Liberal learning is the primary goal; for this purpose teaching is paramount.
- There is earnest concern for the dignity and worth of each student and for fulfillment of the promise of his or her life.
- Present on the campus is pervasive attention to human values, with commitment by persons and by the college to peace, decency and justice in human life.
- The college as a community is marked by simplicity, by concern for wholeness of life and learning, and by dedication to service of mankind.
- Unequivocal and implicit is Juniata's commitment to freedom of inquiry and of expression.
- The College is notable for diligence and excellence in learning and for seriousness of purpose on the part of faculty and students.

Characteristic of today's Juniata is a new openness and a new desire to move into the mainstream of American higher education. Since 1968 we have seen an acceleration of change in keeping with our desire to be responsive to the unfolding needs of students and to the rapid changes of the world to which Juniata is responsible. The quality of change, as a demonstration of the College's capacity for self-renewal, will determine its usefulness and worth for all the years to come.

TRUSTEES

Leading the way in response to changing conditions was the Board of Trustees. On May 10, 1969, after a year of study, totally rewritten by-laws were unanimously adopted. Most fundamental was the determination that henceforth Juniata College shall be in practice, as well as in fact, an independent institution. Secondly, the new by-laws provided for functional reorganization of the Board in order that it may accomplish more effectively its present and future responsibilities. Some evidences of renewal by the Board of Trustees are the following:

- Improved results have been achieved by various committees; a special example is in finance and investment where there have been excellent results that are in keeping with modern thinking about effective endowment management.
- The Board's composition has been improved with several notable additions. Faculty and student involvement in Board affairs has been achieved with gratifying results.
- Trustees have themselves led the way in financial development by dedicated effort and by their own generous giving for endowment, for campus development and for current educational programs.

- The Board has given helpful encouragement to educational reform and to other aspects of change as the best means of providing the quality of educational experience needed by Juniata's students for the 1970's and beyond.

ADMINISTRATIVE LEADERSHIP

The past three years have seen a recognition that Juniata will benefit from a broadly based program of administrative leadership. The president has endeavored to share his leadership responsibility with designated officers of administration and with faculty, students, and alumni. For this purpose new blood has been infused into Juniata's life in three of the four primary administrative areas.

Dr. Wilfred G. Norris began in 1970 his excellent work as Dean of the College. Equally effective in their respective areas are Foster G. Ulrich, Jr., Executive Director of Development, who joined us in January, 1970, and Floyd A. Roller, Business Manager and Controller, who began his work in the summer of 1969. Retained from the prior administration because of his effectiveness in the student personnel field is Dr. Charles W. Schoenherr, Dean of Students. These men, with average age below forty, give a new vitality to educational advance and provide assurance of continuity of leadership. Significant for a college wanting to be more broadly based is the fact that of these four men, only one is an alumnus. In addition there remain as valued servants of the college two men, Harold B. Brumbaugh and John T. Fike, who as staff vice-presidents continue their faithful work in support of financial development and of financial management areas respectively. To all of these leaders, the president wishes to express personal gratitude and commendation.

FACULTY AND CURRICULUM

In 1969, the faculty, with significant student participation, responded in a most remarkable way to the president's call for educational reform. The Task Force on the Juniata Program stimulated a dynamic program of re-examination and redesign which culminated in the implementation in September, 1971, of a newly conceived plan for liberal education. This plan which is consistent with Juniata's best traditions places renewed emphasis upon the intellectual and personal encounter between teacher and student. It provides flexibility in place of rigidity in education; instead of being spoon-fed, students are given a large measure of freedom and responsibility, under faculty guidance, for the planning of their own education. In response to rightful student concern for lack of meaning in their education, attention is strongly focused upon value-centered studies and upon integration of learning. Independent studies, both on-and-off-campus, are encouraged.

Under the new program, Juniata seeks to aid each student in achieving a solid ground in a particular area of study and, in addition, to develop certain habits of mind which will serve him well in every aspect of his life, not just in his profession. The new program seeks to recognize that to be human is to be reflective, interpretive, and decision-making. It is further held that these habits of mind are capable of being cultivated and developed so that a man may become more fully human to the benefit of both himself and the world in which he lives. The college holds to the academic principle of free inquiry and of free access to ideas along with the opportunity of the free exercise of critical judgment. (For full information the reader is referred to faculty reports and current catalogs.)

As the writing of faculty by-laws is proceeding, the Faculty has reorganized itself on an experimental basis. The plan of organization is responsive to the need for facilitating the new academic program. An integral part of the new faculty organization is the provision for participation by students, with extensive decision-making responsibility. There is recognition of need for a dynamic plan which can lead continuously to faculty improvement and to further educational reform that is responsive to changing circumstances in our society.

BUDGET

Confronted with a serious problem in current operations for 1968-69, Juniata took steps during the latter half of 1969 to develop a totally new budget structure and procedure. Partial implementation for 1969-70 brought the budget nearly into balance for that fiscal year and full application of the new plan brought the desired balanced budget for 1970-71. During this three-year period total expenditures increased by 23% from $3,702,812 for 1968-69 to a projected expenditure of $4,571,745 in the anticipated balanced budget for 1971-72.

The new budget structure is congruent with the revised administrative structure. Responsibility for budget is placed directly upon the persons who are charged with success and improvement of educational and student-service programs. These persons are involved in budget planning so as to attain optimal use of resources —finances, facilities, and, above all, personnel. Coupled with this are the necessary procedures for budgetary controls and for revision according to changing conditions. There is widespread recognition that the college must live within its means while working diligently to enlarge all available sources of support. This enlargement of resources is not aimed at extensive quantitative growth. Instead, Juniata intends to invest added funds in the advancement of educational quality.

FUND RAISING

The improved budgetary situation was made possible in part by a newly established Annual Support Fund. It was necessary to introduce this fund in 1969 even though the college was then engaged also in a capital funds campaign. Alumni and other friends of Juniata exceeded goals of $115,000 and $125,000 respectively in 1969-70 and 1970-71, and success is again anticipated in achieving a $125,000 goal for 1971-72. The purpose of this fund is to provide added support for faculty salaries and for much needed student aid.

Juniata is now at mid-stream in a capital fund effort—the Margin of Difference—for at least $10-million during the period from 1968 to 1976. In December, 1969, a year ahead of schedule, Juniata supporters exceeded the first $2.8-million goal with a total accomplishment slightly in excess of $3-million. Now well along toward completion is Phase II of the Margin of Difference with a $2.5-million objective. In the autumn of 1973, Juniata will move into the third phase for at least $5-million in preparation for the Centennial in 1976.

Especially noteworthy have been the performances of Juniata's alumni and trustees in their generous support of the college. Total funds raised during the past three years were as follows: 1968-69, $783,356; 1969-70, $1,580,842; and 1970-71, $1,000,078. Equally significant has been the increased percentage of alumni contributors to the College: 35% in 1968-69; 40% in 1969-70; and 43% in 1970-71.

GROWTH IN ASSETS

A special concern of this administration is the substantial increase of the endowment of the college. With this, both stability and educational quality may be more readily assured. As of July 1, 1968, the book value of the endowment was $2,834,385 and by July 1, 1971, there was a 29% increase to a total book value of $3,664,710. In addition, the book value for campus and facilities increased from $11,571,789 to $14,902,131 from 1968 to 1971, and miscellaneous assets increased from $1,191,268 to $2,114,403 during the same three-year period. Total assets as of July 1, 1968, were $15,597,442, and there was an increase of 32% to $20,681,244 as of July 1, 1971.

Significant additions to the plant include Ellis Hall—the College Center, a wonderfully fine facility for the use of the college community, and the East Houses which provide exceptional residence facilities for more than 200 students. In addition, there has been added the Baker Nature Preserve, 170 acres of undeveloped land located near the main campus. With the demolition of three old structures in 1970 and the completion at that time of the East Houses, Juniata found itself in the very favorable position of having 85% of its total square footage in structures built since 1950, and chiefly since 1960. Special credit is due to President Emeritus Calvert N. Ellis and all who were associated with him in this remarkable development of the college's physical plant. The recognized needs at this time, for a student body only slightly larger than the present enrollment of 1200, include a new building for the humanities and added indoor-recreation facilities.

It is recognized that special attention must be given to the development of the library, both in service and in learning resource materials. To this end the Friends of the Library organization has been revived with promising results and the library budget has been increased. Additional efforts must be made so as to accelerate the library growth, beyond the increase of 11 per cent for the three-year period 1968-1971 when the holdings of the library grew from 102,802 to 115,000.

THE VIEW TO THE FUTURE

Among the most urgent requirements and opportunities for the next five years are the following:

- Juniata must achieve further growth in assets, especially endowment, of at least $7-million, or an advancement of one-third over the present total assets.

- The College needs financial capacity in current operations to serve a wider cross-section of American society.
- Support should be obtained for special programs which will be expressive of the best Juniata traditions and responsive to the needs of our nation and the world. An urgent example is the development of a program for peace-keeping which will engage the intellectual interests and personal commitment of students.
- There is need now for a well-conceived program of long-range academic and fiscal planning based upon the short-term experience of the past three years.

- The College must endeavor to maintain a dynamic qualitative improvement in its educational program while limiting quantitative growth. In so doing it will demonstrate that the small liberal arts college is viable and has inherent advantages that must be steadfastly maintained for our students and our society.

 Replogle, The Reverend and Mrs. A. B.
 Shippey, Dr. Celesta Wine

BEQUESTS — $261,430.15

Through their wills many alumni and friends of Juniata have provided essential endowment support to the College by bequests. Bequests for the current year representing restricted and unrestricted gifts are listed below.

Harvey J. Beabes

A Somerset County retired farmer, Harvey J. Beabes '09, enjoyed in his lifetime the active participation in church and alumni activities of Juniata College. In his will he left an unrestricted gift. Mr. Beabes was a long-time member of the Founders Club and was an annuitant.

Mrs. Harriet Beight

A lifetime resident of Ohio, Mrs. Hattie Good Beight, Bus. '07, made an unrestricted gift in her will to Juniata College. She was a member of the Woodworth Church of the Brethren and her husband, who preceded her in death, was a Youngstown business man.

Mrs. Florence B. Gibbel

From a family steeped in Juniata tradition, Mrs. Florence B. Gibbel left a bequest in her will to Juniata College. Since 1934 Mrs. Gibbel made annual contributions to a scholarship fund in memory of her husband, the late Henry R. Gibbel, who was for many years a member of the Board of Trustees, and president of the Board at the time of his death. She was, herself, a member of the Board from 1927 until the time of her death in 1971.

J. Omar Good

Payments were made during this fiscal year on the settlement of the estate of the late J. Omar Good N. E. '96 for his one million dollar bequest to Juniata College. On October 18, 1969, the Board of Trustees named the new academic classroom building the J. Omar Good Hall. Mr. Good was formerly from Waynesboro and was retired from a stationery and printing business in Philadelphia.

Samuel M. Hess

A prominent Juniata College alumnus, and member of the Board of Trustees, the late Samuel M. Hess '06, provided in his will for a bequest to capitalize his One Thousand Club membership on annual giving. Payments on the settlement of his estate were made in this fiscal year. Mr. Hess gave considerable time and resources to the beautification of Juniata's campus.

Mrs. Jennie S. Newcomer

A residual bequest in the will of the late Jennie Stouffer Newcomer N. E. '88, was settled in this fiscal year. Mrs. Newcomer was one of the earliest students at Juniata College and was on the Board of Trustees from 1900 to 1938, the time of her death. The bequest was unrestricted.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Shellenberger

A scholarship fund is being established by bequests from the estate of the late John E. and Beulah Cresswell Shellenberger, Acad. '10, of Huntingdon. This bequest included their Warrior Ridge residence. They had been participants in Juniata's annuity program and were long-time annual givers to the College.

THE JUNIATA COLLEGE MUSEUM

Although the donors are not listed in this report the College gratefully acknowledges the gifts of numerous items for the museum. This collection of Juniata memorabilia is maintained in the rotunda of Carnegie Hall.

THE ECONOMY OF GIVING TO JUNIATA

While most gifts to Juniata College from alumni and other friends are made because of a deep sense of loyalty to the College or one's class, or an interest in specific academic programs, or other equally valid reasons, often overlooked are the substantial tax savings which can be realized through understanding the various ways in which gifts can be made to Juniata.

Are you aware of what the tax laws say with respect to the federal income tax? Federal estate tax? Federal gift tax?

Are you aware of the tax advantages to your estate with respect to gifts by Will—such as an outright bequest? Gift annuities or life income contracts? Placing a husband's estate in trust for his wife and Juniata? Preserving a family business through the establishment of an educational trust?

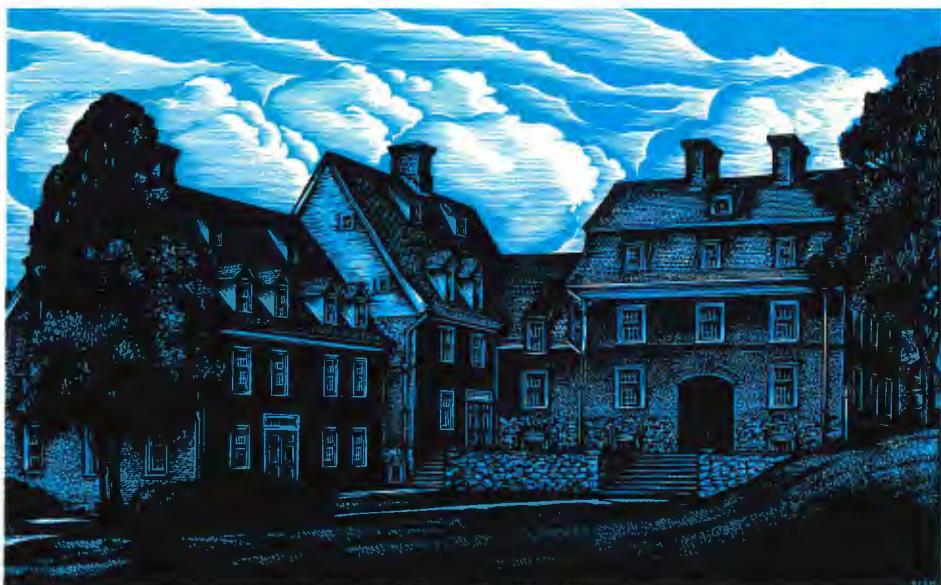

Are you aware of the variety of ways you can give to Juniata College during your lifetime which may yield important tax benefits? By:

- Outright gifts of cash?
- Gifts of securities?
- Gifts of life insurance?

- Trust for self and the College?
- Trust for self, wife, and the College?
- Life income acquired from Juniata?
- Estate "poured into" trust for family and Juniata?

- Gifts of preferred stock by a business owner?

These and other matters are explained in a series of new individual booklets which may be obtained by writing to: Harold B. Brumbaugh, Vice President for College Relations, Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pennsylvania 16652.
